Jorge León Elías

Game Designer

My name is Jorge, I'm a Game Designer that loves the process of designing and coding video games. I've spent the last 4 years working as a designer in various projects of diverse team sizes, owning different game features from concept to implementation. While doing so, I've had the opportunity of working in amazing projects that have received outstanding public reception, working both in the indie and AA space.

I have a big passion for designing and prototyping game systems, looking with a keen eye to engage players and creating game experiences they'll never forget.
